NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS

City Fathers Prepare a Surprise Party for Ambitious Bidders on Sewers.

Whoever Gets the Job Will Have to Build the Sewer and Take All the Risks - Result of a Little Investigation.

The city council will hold a special meeting this evening for the purpose of approving the bid of City Clerk Zurnmehlen, who will enter upon his duties tomorrow.

City Engineer Cook has prepared some new plans and specifications for sewer work in various parts of the city, and these will also be brought before the council for adoption or rejection. The specifications will cover precisely the same ground as those which were advertised several weeks ago and the bids for which were rejected last Monday night.

The bids, by the way, are by far the lowest that have ever been put in for any city work. L. C. Besley, the lowest bidder, to whom the contract would have been let if it had been let at all, arrived to build a thirty-six-inch sewer for $1.45 per foot, and this so competent persons say, is really so cheap that he would not make a cent on it, if indeed he came out even. What stuck in the craw of Alderman Smith—and, probably in the craws of the other aldermen, for they all voted with him—was the fact that none of the bids provided for the contractors furnishing lumber for the pipe, but that they were to furnish the soil, but the city had to take all risk of this kind.

Alderman Smith thought he saw in this way of doing things a chance for the contractors to run in a large bill of extras, and he demanded that the bids be all thrown out and that new specifications be drawn up and readvied in order that the contractors might bid for a fixed amount per foot, taking all risks themselves. His plan met with the approval of the other aldermen, although according to the statement of the city engineer the plan will cost the city a cool $1,000 in cash. It was adopted. The contractors state that their new bids will not be so low.

STUCK ANOTHER SUCKER. Good Illinois Money Sunk in a Worthless Lafayette Addition Lot.

Another victim of the Lafayette addition bunco game came to light yesterday. He hailed from Douglas county, Illinois, and was in the hole to the amount of $1,300. He visited a couple of well known real estate men of the city and stated that he had fallen in with a real estate man in Chicago who had questioned an old business deal. The Chicago man told him that he had a mortgage for sale for $1,250 on improved property worth $1,500. The property in question was in Lafayette addition to the city of Council Bluffs, and as everything seemed to be all right, he fell into the trap.

The Lafayette syndicate yesterday took across W. McManis and asked him to take him to see his prospective property. McManis told him it would be wasted labor, but he insisted. A car was sent to take him and the two set out. When they had gone about two miles and a half on the road to Mamwa and found the depth of the mud continuing to increase he began to feel that he had taken the advice that had been offered him before he started out, but he kept manfully on until he reached the hole. Upon learning that he could not get out, he turned back to the hole and his land he turned back to town.

The Lafayette syndicate has been aired in the newspapers time and time again, and yet victims are continually turning up. Fully three-fourths of the addition is located in Douglas county, and a large number of Missouri river, while the rest is so low and boggy as to be worth absolutely nothing.

The Illinois man, on consulting the records, found that the $1,000 lot was assessed at $10, and the taxes for this year were 22 cents. When he had investigated sufficiently to find out that he had really been swindled he secured advice from several real estate men of this city, among them F. J. Day and J. W. Squires, stating what they knew of the "bunco game" and the man who was trying to secure settlement from the man from whom he purchased the property. If the settlement is not forthcoming a criminal charge will be made against the man who made an example out of some one that will serve as a warning to the rest of the parties who are engaged in perpetrating this bar-faced fraud.

New Discoveries in Electricity. A great discovery in electricity has been made. Light is absolutely destitute of heat, is produced that shines through a solid wall as the present light through window glass. The light within a house enables one outside to read by it as though the brick walls were transparent glass. Prof. DeMotte will explain and illustrate this at the Broadway Methodist church Saturday evening.

Has His Office in Red. Superintendent Robert of the Iowa School for the Deaf is resting as comfortably as could be expected, in view of a compound fracture of one leg, resulting from his recent fall. He is not resting, however, in one sense, and a very important one, though on his back, and in not very good condition for work, he is doing quite a hand-ome business. He has had a queer looking frame built up about his bed, a sort of combination of a gymnasium and office. By means of a special contrivance, his hands, he is able to lift his shoulders and shift his position a little, and exercise a few of his muscles. Attached to the standards which support this peculiar contrivance is a writing desk, while on each side are pigeon holes and other conveniences for ready office work. At the head of the bed are electric buttons, so that he can open the door or signal at his attendant, by day and night. This is at his command by day and night. The crippled superintendent is doing all the necessary purchasing and correspondence, and performing all his official duties except that of personal inspection of the different departments. The heads of these departments report, however, to him continually, and thus the work of caring for seven hundred children is overseen almost as though nothing had happened. It is not a picnic for him, however, as he is suffering at times very severely, and besides that is tortured almost by the restlessness naturally resulting from the captivity of one generally so active.

New Cases in Court. The city is made defendant in a suit which has just been begun in district court by George A. Holmes to collect $3,000 for his services as attorney in the Fairmount park litigation. Holmes was city attorney at the time the litigation was commenced, but after it had been in progress one year his services as attorney were discontinued. He is now suing for $3,000 as the amount his services were worth from that time until the settlement last winter. Mention was made in these columns at the time the settlement was made with E. W. Burke and Judge Trimble of the fact that Holmes had presented his bill, but it was dismissed by the court.

W. McManis filed a petition in the district court asking for a judgment of $1,500 against John Clausen for personal injuries sustained by his store on Broadway. A couple of months ago he went to Clausen's store to look for work, and ran across an employe of Clausen who on learning his errand, asked him to get out of the store. On the way, while passing through a dark entry way, he fell into the elevator shaft, and he claims sustained a broken wrist and initial spine.

Robert Johnson commenced a suit yesterday against Thomas Johnson to collect $450 for a board bill claimed to be due from the defendant. The latter is now in jail, and before her death requested the plaintiff, he claims, to take care of her son James. He did so, and now wants a judgment for $8 a week from the time he took charge of the boy.
